The Chicago Chapter of the Association for Professionals in Infection Control and Epidemiology, Inc. presents its annual education program. The program seeks to enhance the knowledge of infection control and patient safety professionals in all healthcare settings.

PURPOSE OF THE PROGRAM

At the end of the session participants will have gained an understanding of infection control practices related to: the benefits of microbes to human existence, best practices to use related to environmental construction, sterilization and disinfection, antimicrobial susceptibility and environmental cleaning.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

At completion of the program Attendees will be able to:

1. Discuss disease transmission, outbreaks and infection control measures after a natural disaster.
2. Describe the impact that reduction in HAIs will have on global hospital budgets and resistant organisms.
3. Review reports and modes of nosocomial HBV transmission and IC interventions in the HealthCare setting.
4. Review vaccination recommendations for HCWs and post-exposure prophylaxis.
